LIMIT TO THE POLL TAX.

Ruling by North Carolina Supreme Court Which Affects Many Counties.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

RALEIGH, N. C., May 25.—In reversing the lower court in the joint cases of Southern Railway Company vs. Commissioners of Mecklenburg and Buncombe counties, involving the right of the counties to levy poll tax in excess of $2, the Supreme Court of North Carolina renders probably the most far-reaching decision in years, counties not affected in their taxation system being the exception. This opinion was one of twenty-four delivered this afternoon, with still others to be handed down later in the week before the court adjourns for the term.

In the case of the Southern Railway vs. Commissioners, the court holds that under the provisions of article 5, sections 1, 2, 6 and 7, of the State Constitution, the capitation tax specified by section 1 shall never exceed $2 on a head for both State and county; that under section 2 the capitation tax, State and county, shall be applied to purposes of education and support of the poor, and for no other purpose; that, in pursuance of section 6, the counties may levy for ordinary current expenses double the State and county tax on property, and a poll tax which, combined with the poll tax levied by the State, shall never exceed $2; that for special purposes, on approval of the General Assembly, counties may levy more than double the State poll tax; that for this tax no poll tax levied; that the limitation and equation described by section 1, article 5, "that the tax of $200 of property shall never exceed the tax on the poll," applied only to State and county taxes levied for ordinary current expenses for State and county purposes.

The court adopts the construction as to limitation and equation announced by Chief Justice Pearson in the old case of University Railroad vs. Holden.

A HARD CASE

Imagine a man so low with kidney disease that he had to sit up night and day. He even had to sleep sitting up, being unable to lay in his bed or stand on his feet for such was the final condition of W. R. Rayle, the well-known business man of Bartow, Fla.

No matter what the kidney disease is called—whether kidney trouble, Neuritis or Bright's disease—it is inflammation of the kidneys, and as the old-time fiddle kidney medicines are kidney excitants, you can see why they failed in his case as they have in yours.

Cutler's Renal Compound is the first successful renal emollient, thus reducing renal inflammation and kidney disease in many cases for the first time. Even serious supposed incurable forms yield as above.

NERVE INDUSTRY IS WHAT WE NEED

Striking Address by Mr. Escott to the Alumni of North Carolina A. and M. College.

TEACH BOYS HOW TO LEAD

An Appeal for Such Practical Education as Will Lead to Organizing Varied Industries.

RALEIGH, N. C., May 25.—Mr. A. E. Escott, class of 1897, formerly of Charlottesville, now secretary and treasurer of the Raleigh Cotton Mills, was the orator for the meeting of the Alumni Association of the North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts, tonight, there being a delightful reception immediately after the oration.

The alumni meeting was the second event in connection with the 1908 commencement, which is now scoring a high degree of success, the remaining events to be the commencement address Tuesday evening by President Paul B. Barringer, of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and the graduating exercises Wednesday morning, when fifty-three young men will receive diplomas in various studies.

The subject of Mr. Escott's address was "Nerve in Industry." He said one object of college life is to teach men how to work and direct the work of others to the best advantage, but that there was another object, which, he feared, was too often overlooked—the capacity for placing capital. There are, he said, about $14,000,000 invested in manufacturing in this State, but the bulk of it is in cotton manufacturing that requires standard equipment and in good times little initiative to sell. There are times when the demand for this commodity falls off and the plant must be kept running, the need the South has for diversified industries.

The necessity for diversified industries carries with it, he declared, a call for men with the ability to organize, and this should be an essential qualification of the graduates of the North Carolina college. He cited the wonderful growth of the furniture manufacturing business in High Point, Greensboro, Mebane, Winston-Salem, Hickory, and other North Carolina towns, all sprung from one or two small factories only a few years ago. Somebody had the nerve to make the venture, and to build up a fine face of the competition, so that great furniture centers as Grand Rapids.

The mission of the alumni of the Agricultural and Mechanical College, Mr. Escott declared, was to give the hand of man while the hand of the machine is making the machine, and to keep the body and property together, so that what is left over will go to swell the wealth of the community. He said it would continue to be necessary for alumni of the college to go beyond the borders of the State and start on the road to success until the natural resources of the State are more fully developed, but he pointed with pride to the fact that nearly every industry that has started in Raleigh, Charlotte, Greensboro or other towns of North Carolina with even a few hundred dollars' resources, has grown in a few years by force of profits to a business of thousands of dollars.

He pictured forcibly the possibilities of establishing great enterprises that will afford profitable employment to hundreds and thousands of people, and declared that it is only for corporals and sergeants of industry, or even privates in the rear ranks, he envied the man who organizes an industrial army and leads it in the battle of business.

"I want to see," said Mr. Escott, "our graduates, after leaving the ropes here or elsewhere in subordinate positions, set some new wheels to turning in North Carolina, making new things, and to see how many of our graduates are now making new things, new factories making cheap chairs, new more cotton mills turning out plain cloth that has to go North to the States, and new cotton mills with new freight added and two or three commissions added for handling. I want to see our graduates building paper mills and clothing factories and novelty works and machine shops making machinery for all these industries." The need of the State for the "spirit of the initiative—the courage to dare and to do"—was declared by Mr. Escott to be one of the chief reasons for his coming to the college, and he said that the right of rank in the business world, compared with her vast natural resources, speaking of the State of North Carolina development Mr. Escott declared that the projected canals along the Atlantic Coast will improve the land, the chance for the conservation of her forests will save the fertility of the soil and the water power and growth of population will enhance the value of agriculture and the next ten or twenty years will see in this State the greatest development and finest opportunities for the investment of capital that the whole country will present.

SALEM FEMALE COLLEGE.

President Finley, of the Southern, an address to the students.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., May 25.—The feature of to-day's exercises in connection with the one-hundredth and sixtieth annual commencement of Salem Female College was the playing of the class tree and the Alumni Association reunion this afternoon. President W. W. Finley, of the Southern Railway, addressed the association to-night, and the annual music festival closed with a program that was a crowning triumph to the series of concerts. To-morrow will be commencement day proper; the literary address will be delivered by President Poter, of Wake Forest College. Young ladies composing this year's senior class represent nearly every Southern State.

WORKING ON BANK'S AFFAIRS.
Mr. Smithley Making Good Progress—Condition of Young.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
BOYNTON, VA., May 25.—Everything is working smoothly in the affairs of the Bank of Mecklenburg. The receivers are very busily engaged in looking after the assets of the bank. Special Commissioner Marvin Smithley, who was appointed by Judge Tucker to take state and settle the account of the bank and report to the court, is still busy. The settlement requires the presence of a large number of creditors, who came here to see that their account with the bank agrees with their individual memorandum. It is understood that the commissioner has had but little trouble in this respect, as the individual accounts of the bank have been as a rule accurately kept and tally with the depositors' memorandum.

There has been nothing done as yet towards making up the shortage in the bank's account, but the friends of Cashier Hawkins, of the branch bank at Chase City, say they have made up the amount of shortage at that bank.

The condition of Frank Young, the condemned murderer, who is to be executed here on the 5th day of June, is truly pitiable. He has to all appearances been a raving maniac. He bites and snaps like a mad dog. His counsel, who defended him at his trial, went in the jail to see him a short time since. Young was lying on his bunk, and the lawyer passed him snapped at and attempted to bite him on the leg. His condition appears to puzzle the medical men.

Rev. Robert Bedinger, of the Presbyterian Church, preached two fine sermons here yesterday morning and at night. Mr. Bedinger is a resident of Halifax and preaches here every fourth Sunday.

FINDS $5,000 BURIED GOLD

Honest Contract Digs Up Treasure in a Long Lost Hidden.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 25.—James Graham, a contractor, known as "Honest Jim," dug up an old land can while moving a house. When opened the can was found to contain British sovereigns and half sovereigns to the value of $5,000.

The house had belonged to Mary Ann Kilch, an eccentric English woman, who came to this country before the war and brought gold with her. Fearing the soldiers would invade this part of the country and steal her money, she buried it. After the war she was suspicious of banks and allowed the money to remain.

S.S.S. FOR RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood, brought about by the accumulation in the system of refuse matter which the natural avenues of bodily waste have failed to carry off. This waste or refuse matter ferments and sours and generates uric acid which is absorbed into the blood and distributed to all parts of the body, and Rheumatism, with its torturing pains and aches, inflammation and other disagreeable symptoms, gets possession of the system. The aches and pains may be relieved and the inflammation temporarily reduced by the application of a good plaster, penetrating liniment or some other simple home remedy, but the disease can never be cured while the blood remains saturated with the irritating, pain-producing uric acid poison. The cause should be driven from the blood before the trouble reaches the chronic or helpless stage. S. S. S., a purely vegetable remedy, cures Rheumatism by thoroughly cleansing the blood of every particle of the uric acid poison, and making this vital fluid pure, fresh and health-sustaining. It filters out from the circulation the remotest particle of the poison, and when S. S. S. has renovated the blood, Rheumatism is thoroughly and permanently cured. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free.
